Welcome to our new Chamber Connect directory!

By GPRC Board Chair, Christopher Penn

In the dynamic landscape of the Tri Region, success is rarely a solo endeavour. It is the result of a collective energy, a symphony of effort from Spruce Grove, Stony Plain, and Parkland County. At the centre sits the Greater Parkland Regional Chamber of Commerce directory. More than a mere compilation of contact information, this directory serves as a premier showcase of the diverse talent, relentless innovation, and unwavering spirit that define our local economy.

A SHOWCASE OF EXCELLENCE

The chamber directory is a curated gallery of the Tri Region's greatest assets. Within its pages (and digital links), you will find the trailblazing entrepreneurs and innovators who turn bold ideas into reality. It highlights the community and opinion leaders who shape our local culture and the organizations that provide the essential glue for our social fabric. From the sprawling industrial developments and rich agricultural roots to the boutique retail shops that line our streets, the directory mirrors the vibrant, multi-faceted nature of our regional identity.

THE GOLD STANDARD FOR CONSUMERS

For the modern consumer, the "paradox of choice" is a daily challenge. In an era where online reviews can be hit-or-miss, the chamber directory stands as a beacon of trust. It is an invaluable tool for those seeking reputable, credible, and reliable businesses. When a consumer chooses a member from this directory, they aren't just buying a product or service; they are engaging with a professional who has committed to the chamber's high standards of excellence. Research often shows that chamber membership acts as a "seal of approval", signaling to the public that a business is deeply invested in its customers and its community. Whether you are looking for a trustworthy contractor, a specialized consultant, or a high-quality local gift, the directory simplifies the search for excellence.

STRENGTH IN DIVERSITY AND COLLABORATION

Perhaps the most noteworthy aspect of the directory is the incredible breadth of industries it represents. It is a place where small startups stand alongside established regional giants. This diversity is our greatest strength, fostering a unique environment where collaboration replaces competition. By providing a platform for these varied voices to connect, the directory facilitates collaboration, growth, and success.

A WIN-WIN FOR THE FUTURE

The underlying philosophy of the Greater Parkland Regional Chamber is simple: Working together is the key to a brighter future. When we support local members, we keep our economy resilient. When businesses collaborate through the chamber's network, they unlock new opportunities that wouldn't be possible in isolation. Ultimately, the chamber directory is a testament to the "Win-Win" scenario. The businesses gain visibility and credibility, the consumers gain peace of mind and quality, and the Tri Region gains a more prosperous and unified future. We invite you to explore, connect, and discover the amazing people and products that make our region thrive!

About the Greater Parkland Regional Chamber of Commerce

An award-winning chamber

The Greater Parkland Regional Chamber of Commerce (GPRC) was awarded the 2021 Large Chamber of the Year by the Alberta Chambers of Commerce.

A UNIFIED CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

2020 was the inaugural year for the chamber. The GPRC joins the Stony Plain, Spruce Grove, and Wabamun business communities and chambers' together into one. In 2025, the Town of Onoway and Village of Alberta Beach joined the chamber. The GPRC encourages growth in the region and elevates local businesses through professional development, community engagement, promotion, and membership benefits. Our new brand represents the vitality, innovation, and growth of the Tri Region communities.

BRAND STORY

The three Cs of our logo represent the three communities we represent. We are a large, diverse geographical area with diverse industries of agriculture, industrial development, retail, and energy. The scenic and agricultural beauty of our region is represented by the wheat in our logo, the sun's rays are depicted to represent the setting of the Western Sun, and our industrial region is depicted with the cog. Our brand represents innovation, youthfulness, and the forward-thinking mentality of our organization. It perfectly represents the growth of our province, individuals, and businesses that fuel and inspire our region.

MISSION STATEMENT

We promote the economic and social wellbeing of our community. The chamber acts as the front-door of the business community; uniting and representing the GPRC members in order to promote growth and economic contribution in the region.

VISION STATEMENT

To be recognized as the trusted source and business voice for our members in the Tri Region.

A partnership rooted in community by strengthening local business together

By the Hon. Searle Turton, MLA for the Spruce Grove-Stony Plain Constituency

The strength of any community can often be measured by the health of its local business sector. Across the Tri Region, that connection runs deep. This area has long been defined by hardworking entrepreneurs, family run shops, skilled trades, innovative service providers, and employers who not only create jobs but also invest their time, energy, and resources back into the communities they call home. At the heart of this ecosystem stands the chamber of commerce, a trusted convener, advocate, and champion for local business.

The relationship between the Tri Region and the chamber is not transactional; it is intrinsic. It is built on shared values, mutual respect, and a collective understanding that when local businesses succeed, our entire region benefits. From main street storefronts to industrial parks, from startups to established employers, the chamber plays a vital role in bringing people together, amplifying voices, and fostering collaboration across sectors.

As Spruce Grove-Stony Plain Constituency's MLA, I have had the privilege of working closely with the chamber and its members over the years. That relationship has reinforced for me just how essential a strong and engaged the chamber is to the long-term prosperity of the Tri Region.

One of the chamber's greatest strengths lies in its ability to connect. Business owners often wear many hats: employer, marketer, accountant, mentor, and it can be isolating to navigate challenges alone. The chamber provides a space where entrepreneurs from across the Tri Region can learn from one another, share experiences, and build relationships that extend well beyond individual transactions.

These connections matter. They spark partnerships, encourage innovation, and create a sense of belonging within the regional business community. They help ensure that businesses, regardless of size or sector, can access networks and opportunities that might otherwise be out of reach.

Equally important is the chamber's role as a bridge between business and government. By bringing forward the perspectives of its members, the chamber helps ensure that policy discussions are informed by real world experience. This advocacy function is essential, particularly in times of economic uncertainty or transition, when clear communication and collaboration are more important than ever.

The Tri Region has always been a place where people are willing to take risks, work hard, and build something lasting. That entrepreneurial spirit is woven into the fabric of the area. It is reflected in the diversity of businesses we see today, from agriculture and manufacturing to retail, construction, hospitality, and professional services.

Local businesses are not just economic drivers; they're community builders sponsoring sports teams, support charitable causes, participate in local events, and provide spaces where people gather and connect. They help define the character of our communities and contribute to the quality of life that makes the Tri Region such a desirable place to live, work, and raise a family.

Supporting these businesses means recognizing their contributions and understanding the challenges they face. It means listening, showing up, working together to remove barriers to growth, and creating an environment where businesses plan, invest, and thrive with confidence.

Throughout my time as MLA for the Spruce Grove-Stony Plain Constituency, I have made it a priority to maintain open lines of communication with the local business community and the chamber that represents it. That collaboration is grounded in respect and a shared commitment to the success of the Tri Region.

Whether through attending chamber events, recognizing business achievements, or engaging in conversations about economic development, my goal has always been to be present and accessible. The insights shared by business owners are invaluable. They help shape advocacy efforts, inform discussions at the Legislature, and ensure that regional perspectives are reflected in broader conversations about Alberta's economy.

The chamber's leadership and volunteers deserve recognition for the work they do behind the scenes, often quietly and without fanfare, to support members and strengthen the business climate. Their dedication helps ensure that the Tri Region remains competitive, resilient, and forward looking.

The economic landscape continues to evolve, bringing both challenges and opportunities. Navigating change requires collaboration, adaptability, and a willingness to work together toward common goals. The relationship between the Tri Region and the chamber positions us well to do just that.

By fostering dialogue, encouraging innovation, and advocating for practical solutions, the chamber helps prepare local businesses for the future while staying grounded in the values that have always defined this area. As MLA, I remain committed to supporting those efforts and to working alongside the chamber and its members to ensure that the Tri Region continues to be a place where businesses can grow and succeed.

Strong communities are built through partnership. The connection between the Tri Region and the chamber of commerce is a testament to what can be achieved when people come together with a shared purpose. I am proud of that relationship and grateful for the role the chamber plays in strengthening our local economy, today and for generations to come.

A voice for you in Ottawa – Strengthening our partnership

By Dane Lloyd MP – Parkland, Alberta | Conservative Member of Parliament

It's my privilege to serve as your voice in Ottawa and I take every opportunity to advocate support for our local economy and businesses. I believe that the strongest results are born from collaboration.

While government regulations, global shifts, and technological advancements present challenges, they also present an opportunity for us to work together.

THE POWER OF COLLABORATION

I deeply value the input I receive from the chamber and local business owners. This ongoing dialogue ensures that when I stand in the federal square, I am not just speaking from talking points but accurately representing the perspectives of local business owners. By fostering a unified front, we ensure that our region's unique economic situation is represented in the national conversation.

In my discussions with local business owners, it is clear they are deeply invested in the prosperity of our region. They see the opportunities, take the risks, and make the investments to build our future.

My goal is to ensure that their investments are supported by good governance.

THE CHAMBER: A VITAL BRIDGE FOR ADVOCACY

As a voice for local business, the chamber's advocacy efforts are critical in representing its members' interests at all levels of government. Whether championing tax relief or advocating for regulatory reforms, the chamber amplifies the concerns of small businesses. It ensures that legislators like me are fully aware of the challenges and opportunities our business community sees on the ground every day.

In an era of economic flux, the collective action of groups like the chamber of commerce are as important as ever. Through its initiatives and events, the chamber allows us to work together, shaping policies that promote a favourable business environment. I have valued every opportunity the chamber has offered me to connect with the business community over the years, and I am committed to deepening this partnership in the years to come.

LOOKING FORWARD TOGETHER

As I engage with chamber members and business owners, I am inspired by your creativity and determination. This entrepreneurial spirit is the proof that our best days are ahead of us. The resilience of our community lies in the dedication of hard-working, forward-looking businesspeople who pursue their dreams. I stand ready to assist in any way I can, whether it be getting you the information you need or advocating for the action needed to support your business.

Amid economic shifts, global uncertainties and fast-paced technological advancements, it is imperative that our local businesses have the representation and resources to adapt, innovate, and compete. As your MP, my door is always open. I welcome the continued input of the chamber, its members, and our wider business community. Together, through a strong and healthy partnership, we can fight for policies that ensure business success and vibrant communities for our families and our future.

The economic strength of the Tri Region

Mayor William Choy; and

By Mayor Rod Shaigec, Parkland County; Mayor William Choy, Town of Stony Plain; and Mayor Jeff Acker, City of Spruce Grove

As the mayors of the three municipalities in the Tri-Municipal Region, we recognize that the strong, collaborative relationship between our communities creates a thriving business environment.

Parkland County, the Town of Stony Plain, and the City of Spruce Grove have a long history of working together, rooted not only in our geographic closeness and economic interdependence, but also based on our shared values. We recognize that when one community succeeds, our entire region benefits. That understanding drives the strong partnerships we have built and continues to strengthen across municipal boundaries, supported by close ties between our councils and our municipal government officials.

Our business community is supported by a strong network of partners, including the Greater Parkland Regional Chamber of Commerce. From networking and advocacy to business development opportunities, these partnerships play a vital role in strengthening our regional economy.

Regional collaboration reflects our shared commitment to community well-being and extends to initiatives such as the Tri Region Mayors' Annual Golf Tournament, hosted on a rotating basis by each municipality. This year, as Spruce Grove hosts the tournament, funds will be raised in support of a CT scanner for the Westview Health Centre, benefiting residents across our communities.

The spirit of cooperation extends to joint participation in the annual State of the Region event, regional-serving facilities such as the Tri-Leisure Centre, and collective efforts to attract visitors and investment to the Tri-Municipal Region. Another great example of successful regional collaboration is the on-demand local transit system that services Parkland Village, Acheson, Stony Plain and Spruce Grove, which has served to improve links between our communities.

We're proud of the Intermunicipal Business Licence Arrangement and the positive impact this will have on our local business community. This arrangement reduces red tape for businesses and improves business mobility across municipal borders. Through this program, business owners in Spruce Grove or Stony Plain can operate in the other municipality at no additional cost. Parkland County businesses can access a reduced, flat-rate annual Intermunicipal Licence to operate in Stony Plain and Spruce Grove. This approach reflects a shared commitment to making it easier to do business across the region.

Looking to the future, Parkland County, the City of Spruce Grove, and the Town of Stony Plain are aligning their long term priorities to support sustained economic growth and regional competitiveness. Each municipality has identified economic development as a priority, reinforcing that the Tri-Municipal Region remains strategically focused on supporting business, investment, and job creation.

Under Alberta's Municipal Government Act, neighbouring municipalities are required to establish Intermunicipal Collaboration Frameworks and Intermunicipal Development Plans. Together, they reduce duplication, improve coordination, and provide clarity around infrastructure, services, and land use planning. Over this year and the next, we will be taking a collaborative approach to reviewing and renewing these agreements, delivering greater planning and investment clarity, and a more unified regional approach to growth. By strengthening these bi-lateral frameworks, our municipalities are reinforcing the foundation of a competitive, resilient, and business-friendly region.

As your mayors, we remain committed to working together, celebrating shared success, and planning intentionally for the future. When you choose to live, work, invest, or grow a business in our region, you are choosing a place that understands the value of partnership, and the power of shared prosperity.

WEBSITE BANNER ADS

Chamber members often place banner ads on the chamber's website. These can be strategically placed on high-traffic pages, ensuring that your business gets seen by a broad audience. Whether on the homepage, event pages, or member directories, a well-designed banner ad can capture attention and convey your message effectively. This form of advertising is beneficial, because it targets visitors who are already engaged with the local business community.

DIGITAL SIGN ADVERTISING

Chamber members can advertise on digital signs located in strategic areas, such as Stony Plain and Wabamum. These signs are seen by over 15,000 vehicles daily, offering extensive reach and exposure. Digital signs are an excellent medium for promoting special offers, events, or new products. They provide a dynamic way to attract attention from commuters and residents, ensuring your message reaches a wide audience. The high visibility and frequent exposure can significantly boost brand recognition and drive foot traffic to your business.

Social media posts

The chamber's social media platforms provide a powerful avenue for marketing. As a member, you can benefit from posts and shout-outs on these channels, followed by a broad and engaged audience. These posts highlight your business' achievements, promotions, or events, leveraging the chamber's credibility and reach. Engaging posts shared by the chamber leads to increased visibility, more followers, and higher engagement rates on your own social media pages.

E-blasts

Email marketing remains one of the most effective tools for reaching potential customers. As a chamber member, you can take advantage of e-blasts to the chamber's mailing list. These can announce special promotions, upcoming events, or important updates. The chamber's endorsement through these communications adds credibility to your message and ensures it reaches a targeted, interested audience. This can lead to higher open rates and more effective marketing campaigns.

Comprehensive chamber profile

One of the standout benefits of chamber membership is the ability to access and customize your chamber profile. This profile acts as a mini website for your business, containing detailed information about your services, staff, and even multimedia elements like photos and videos. This profile is searchable, making it easy for potential customers to find you. A well-maintained chamber profile can showcase your business' unique qualities and strengths, enhance your online presence, and improve your search engine rankings.

How a chamber of commerce can support businesses doing international trade

Starting a journey into international trade support is a transformative step for a local chamber of commerce. It shifts the organization from being a local networker to a global facilitator, providing members with the keys to new markets and diversified revenue streams.

STRATEGIC GUIDE - HOW A CHAMBER CAN BUILD A SOLID FRAMEWORK FOR INTERNATIONAL TRADE SUPPORT

1. Audit local export readiness

Before looking abroad, a chamber must understand the landscape of its own backyard. The first step is to identify which local businesses are already exporting and which ones have products or services with global potential.

- Conduct a member survey: Determine which markets members are currently eyeing and what barriers (tariffs, logistics, language) are holding them back.
- Identify sector strengths: Focus on the industries where your region has a competitive advantage, such as specialized manufacturing, agriculture, or tech services.

2. Build a strategic partnership network

A local chamber doesn't need to be an expert in international maritime law to be effective. Instead, it should act as the "Grand Central Station" of resources by connecting members to established entities.

- Federal and provincial/state agencies: Partner with organizations like Export Development Canada (EDC) or the U.S. Commercial Service. These bodies offer grants, insurance, and market intelligence.
- Trade commissioner services: Establish direct lines to trade commissioners who can provide on-the-ground insights in foreign markets.

- Customs brokers and logistics firms: Invite these experts to join a trade advisory committee within your chamber to provide technical guidance to other members.

3. Facilitate essential trade documentation

One of the most tangible ways a chamber can support international trade is by becoming a focal point for documentation.

- Certificates of Origin: Many countries require a Certificate of Origin to verify where goods were produced. Most chambers of commerce are authorized to certify these documents. Providing this service efficiently is a primary hook for trade-active members.

- Digital certification: Transitioning to electronic Certificates of Origin significantly speed up the process for members, making your chamber a modern, indispensable partner.

4. Educational programming and "market spotlights"

International trade is often intimidating due to a lack of knowledge. The chamber can demystify the process through targeted education.

- Export 101 workshops: Host seminars on Incoterms, international contracts, and currency hedging.
- Market spotlight events: Organize

"Doing Business In..." sessions, focusing on specific countries. Invite consuls general or trade attaches to speak about opportunities and cultural nuances in their respective nations.

5. Organize trade missions and matchmaking

Once the foundation is laid, the chamber can lead its members directly into new markets.

- Inbound missions: Invite foreign delegations to visit your region to tour facilities and meet local business owners.
- Outbound trade missions: Organize "plug-and-play" trips where business owners can visit trade shows abroad with the chamber handling the logistics and high-level introductions.
- Business matchmaking: Use your chamber network to find "sister chambers" in target countries to facilitate direct B2B introductions.

The goal: A "global-local" mindset

By evolving into a hub for international trade, a chamber of commerce does more than just help individual businesses grow; it insulates the local economy against domestic downturns. When local businesses trade internationally, they bring new wealth back to the community, creating a "win-win" scenario that elevates the entire region's economic stature.

Where the Tri Region meets its moment

The GPRC's State of the Region draws a sell-out crowd and a season of optimism

By Shayna Wiwierski

The GPRC State of the Region event took place on March 19, 2026 at the Spruce Grove Hall at Stony Plain Heritage Park. All photos courtesy of Jasmine Jenne.

On the evening of March 19, 2026, more than 250 business leaders, elected officials, and community builders filled the Spruce Grove Hall at Stony Plain Heritage Park for the annual State of the Region event, the Greater Parkland Chamber of Commerce's signature gathering and, according to many attendees, its most memorable edition yet.

The venue, a grand and handsome hall within one of the region's most storied buildings, was chosen well. Tickets sold out. And by the time the last applause faded and guests filed into the cool Alberta night, the consensus was unambiguous: this had been something special.

"People left with smiles on their faces," says Christopher Penn, chairman of the board of the Greater Parkland Chamber of Commerce (GPRC). "We were told by several people that it was one of the best events they had ever attended. We were absolutely chuffed."

What made the evening's success particularly meaningful was how it came together. Following a period of five weeks during which the chamber had operated without a dedicated operations team, the board of directors took direct ownership of the event, recruiting a skilled local event planner and throwing itself into the organizational work with uncommon dedication. Many volunteers contributed tireless hours behind the scenes. Penn was emphatic in his praise for them.

"Selfless generosity galore," he says. "They weren't there for the credit, or to fish for compliments and recognition, or gain any favour. They believe in the chamber, the municipalities and the region's growth. They see it, so they showed up in full swing."

At its core, the State of the Region is a showcase for the three municipalities that anchor Parkland County's tri-regional identity: the City of Spruce Grove, the Town of Stony Plain, and Parkland County itself. Each mayor took to the stage to present the accomplishments of 2025, accompanied by a short film produced by their respective teams, which is a tradition that has become the emotional and informational centrepiece of the evening. This year's videos struck a balance of facts, humour, and forward-looking vision, each running between six and nine minutes. All three are available on YouTube by searching "State of the Region 2026" alongside the name of each municipality.

Following the presentations, Penn conducted a half-hour fireside chat with the three mayors, drawing candid answers about the region's direction that had the room leaning forward. Adding further weight to the gathering was the presence of six or seven additional mayors from surrounding communities, all seated deliberately among the wider audience rather than clustered together.

"We spread the mayors and their council teams around so that everyone had the privilege of at least one or two dignitaries at their table," Penn explains.

If one theme emerged above all others, it was the extraordinary momentum of Spruce Grove. Penn describes the city in terms that would not be out of place in an economic development report and backed them up with observable reality.

"Spruce Grove is a boomtown," he says. "It's one of the fastest-growing cities in Alberta."

Young families, priced out of Edmonton or wary of its urban challenges, are heading west in significant numbers, drawn by safe streets, abundant parks and pathways, strong schools, a full calendar of community events, and a growing commercial and employment base. Stony Plain, meanwhile, is experiencing its own measured expansion with the coming arrival of a Costco, which is a development Penn flagged as a bellwether and a signal that the region has crossed a threshold. Parkland County, predominantly agricultural in character, is navigating its different growth trajectory with equal steadiness, especially in the ever-expanding jewel that is Acheson. With 10,000 acres of land and 10 million square feet of developed space, Acheson is one of the largest and fastest-growing industrial areas in Western Canada, being home to over 360 to 400-plus commercial and industrial businesses, supporting 10,000 employees.

Not all the evening's conversations were unbridled optimism. Penn acknowledged that some chamber members are feeling the effects of national economic pressures and the ongoing uncertainty around U.S. trade tariffs. Businesses with cross-border supply chains or American customer bases have raised concerns directly. At the provincial level, however, the mood is more resilient.

"We have a strong provincial government, which is making darn sure that Alberta's interests are well protected," Penn says.

For all those business owners and leaders, as well as VIPs, who were not in that hall on March 19, Penn had a clear message: you missed more than a dinner. You missed the chance to sit beside a mayor and/or councillor from a local or neighbouring municipality and have an unscripted conversation. You missed the sweep of three municipal vision films in a single evening. You missed the current state of optimism that ran through a room of over 250 people who, collectively, could see what was coming, and were ready for it.

For those looking to engage before next year's event, the chamber holds monthly networking gatherings (Chamber on Tap), co-organizes and attends business grand openings and milestones across the Tri Region, and hosts major annual events including an Awards Gala and golf tournament, as well as occasional workshops. Membership, Penn notes, remains deliberately accessible.

"The abundant networking opportunities and business exposure you enjoy with the chamber is completely disproportional to the low amount you pay for your membership."

The Tri Region, by every available measure, is on the move. And for Penn, the evening in Stony Plain captured something larger than a single night of good programming and warm applause. It captured a community on the verge of something; aware of it, energized by it, and unwilling to wait.

"You can tell when you're on the brink of that growth," he says. "You can feel it, you can sense it, but you also have the facts and the statistics to prove that exciting times are just around the corner."
